PRIME MINISTER RESIGNS

BRITAIN'S CABINET ANNOUNCED

NO SURPRISES IN NEW MINISTERIAL BODY

London, June 7.
The House of Commons warmly greeted Mr. Ramsay MacDonald on his last day as Prime Minister when he rose to address the members to-day, making a brief reply to Mr. Winston Churchill on the much-debated subject of Britain's air defences.

Immediately after this short passage in the House, the retiring Prime Minister returned to No. 10 Downing Street, where he has made no small contribution to the history of Britain and from which he has deftly directed the affairs of state for the past several years.

He left No. 10 at 3.40 p.m. in a closed car and accompanied by Sir Clive Wigram, arrived at Buckingham Palace at 3.48 p.m. and was ushered into the presence of His Majesty. Mr. MacDonald had tea with the King and presented the resignation of the Cabinet.

On June 5, it was exactly six years since Mr. MacDonald was named Prime Minister and at that time he was close to the retired Labour leader, Lord Snowden. Lord Snowden, incidentally, was operated upon last night. His condition is stated as being satisfactory.

THE CABINET

There are no surprises in the British Cabinet, as announced to-day, for the forecasts were generally accurate.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin becomes the new Prime Minister and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald takes his place as Lord President of the Council. The following is the Cabinet:

Prime Minister, Mr. Baldwin;
Lord President of the Council, Mr. MacDonald;
Home Secretary, Sir John Simon;
Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare;
Domestic Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas;
Colonial Secretary, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald;
Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain;
India Secretary, Marquis Zetland;
Minister without Portfolio for League of Nations affairs, Mr. Anthony Eden;
Lord Chancellor, Viscount Halifax;
Lord Privy Seal, Lord Londonderry;
War Secretary, Lord Halifax;
Air Minister, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister;
Secretary for Scotland, Sir Godfrey Collins;
Health Minister, Sir Kingsley Wood;
Trade Minister, Mr. Walter Runciman;
Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell;
Education Minister, Mr. Oliver Stanley;
Agriculture Minister, Mr. Walter Elliot;
Labour Minister, Mr. Ernest Brown;
Commissioner of Works, Mr. W. G. A. Ormsby-Gore.
Sir John Simon has been appointed Deputy Leader in the House of Commons, in addition to his ministerial post.
Another Cabinet Minister without portfolio, Lord Eustace Percy, has been named.
Outside the Cabinet is the Postmaster-General, Major George C. Tryon, former Minister of Pensions.

Sir Hilton Young, former Minister of Health, has received a barony and Lord Londonderry has been named Leader in the House of Lords.

COMING AND GOING

London, June 7.
There has been an afternoon of coming and going between Buckingham Palace and 10 Downing (Continued on Page 14.)

Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who has been appointed British Prime Minister in succession to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald.

HONGKONG TO TAKE CONTROL

NEW REGULATIONS GAZETTED

LICENSING SYSTEM

As a measure of co-operation with China in efforts to prevent the smuggling of silver, the Hongkong Government has decided to prohibit, except by permit, the export of Chinese silver coin and silver bars from the Colony, except under licence. An official notification to this effect appears in the current issue of the Government Gazette.

The embargo, which will not take effect until after midnight on June 17, applies to Chinese coin and silver bars produced in Hongkong or China. Coin and bars which have been legally exported from China are not affected. It will still be possible to export these latter dollars and bars from Hongkong.

Legitimate silver export transactions will not be interfered with under the embargo, which is designed purely for the purpose of checking the outflow of smuggled Chinese silver from the Colony.

TEXT OF ORDER

The new order has been made in the form of a regulation by the Governor-in-Council under the Importation and Exportation Ordinance. It reads as follows:

No person shall, after midnight of Saturday, June 15th, 1935, except under an export permit granted in his discretion by the Superintendent of Imports and Exports, export from the Colony to any country or place other than China—

- any silver coin minted in China; or
- any silver bullion, other than silver bars the product of refineries outside the Colony of Hongkong and China.

Secrets Of Defence

BRITAIN ALIVE TO AIR RAID DANGER

London, June 7.

In the course of his last speech in the House of Commons as Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald said the Government were keenly alive to the danger of air raids. Since the committees dealing with air raids had been appointed, investigations had been greatly expedited. Their first duty was to collect information.

Mr. MacDonald emphasised the necessity of caution in making disclosures about the work of the committees. He added that the Exchequer's stinginess would postpone an investigation which was so vital to the well-being and safety of Britain.

Thanks to investigations over a wide field of air defence by the supervisory committee and the scientific committee, he was able to take an optimistic view of the outcome of the research being undertaken.—Reuter.

Campaign For Happiness

ROOSEVELT'S HIGH AMBITION

Washington, June 7.

At a press conference to-day, President Roosevelt, when questioned with respect to the Administration's social legislation objectives, replied that its purpose was "to try to increase security and happiness of a larger number of people of all occupations and stations in life in all parts of the country, and give them a greater distribution not only of wealth in narrow terms, but of wealth in wider terms."

Meanwhile, the President emphasises that all voluntary codes and fair practice agreements must conform with the anti-trust laws of the nation. He said he believed off-hand that many did conform with these laws, but he wished to make it clear that he had authority to waive fundamental laws.

He does not object to inter-state compacts, however, now under consideration of group officials of the North-Eastern states.

Respecting oil compacts, he said he still desired that they include all producing states.—Reuter.

Mr. J. Ramsay MacDonald, who, on resigning the Premiership, has been appointed Lord President of the Council in the Baldwin Administration.

Naval Talks Adjourn

ANGLO-GERMAN VIEWS EXCHANGED

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, June 7, 7.30 a.m.)

London, June 7.

The German naval delegates are returning to Berlin to-morrow and are returning to London on June 13, after the Whitsun holiday. They have been discussing with British experts Germany's demand for a navy 35 per cent of the total tonnage of the British Fleet.

An official communique states that the conversations have been proceeding satisfactorily.

The British have given a survey of the present naval situation and in addition some technical points have been discussed.

It is understood the earlier stages of the conversations were largely occupied with the British summary of the situation as it stands, following the naval talks with Japan and the United States last year.

It is assumed that Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop, chief German delegate, has given some explanation for Germany's claim to 35 per cent of the British tonnage.—Reuter Special.

Controlling U.S. Traffic

PRESIDENT TELLS OF PLANS

Washington, June 7.

In his long-awaited transportation message, President Roosevelt to-day proposed to Congress the establishment of a Federal Transportation Commission "with comprehensive powers" over all traffic.

Granting that the time remaining this session was insufficient to consider adequately the general re-organisation of the federal transportation agencies, President Roosevelt insisted that it should not be delayed beyond next session.

He proposed the supervision of all land, sea and air traffic, to be unified in one federal agency, by the expansion of the Interstate Commerce Commission. He also advocated a one year extension of the emergency Railroad Transportation Act of 1933, and the office of Railroad Co-ordinator.—Reuter.

ITALY'S CHARGES ANSWERED

BRITAIN'S ALLEGED INTRIGUES

EDEN DEMOLISHES MANY "WILD CRITICISMS"

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, June 8, 7.30 a.m.)

London, June 7.

Mr. Anthony Eden to-day demolished "the many wild criticisms directed against the British Government in the Italian press" when he defined the British attitude to the Italo-Abyssinian dispute in the House of Commons during the Whitsuntide adjournment debate.

"We have been charged with intrigue," he said, "and with encouraging the Ethiopian Government to adopt a hostile attitude towards Italy. This is as fantastic as the stories that our Colonies' football fields are aerodromes in disguise," he declared.

What possible good had Britain to gain by adding fuel to the smouldering fire in North-East Africa? Mr. Eden asked; and himself answered: none whatever.

On the contrary, the British Government had used its good offices in the interests of both parties and in the cause of peace, said Mr. Eden.

The British rights in Ethiopia were amply protected by treaty, Mr. Eden pointed out.

This statement of the Lord Privy Seal was made in answer to a question by Mr. Clement Attlee, Labour member.

Mr. Attlee suggested that it would be wise to tell Italy quite plainly that if she intended to use force in settling her dispute with Abyssinia that she could not enjoy the use of the Suez Canal.—Reuter Special.

INVESTIGATION ACCEPTED

Milan, June 7.

Before the adjournment of the Italo-Abyssinian Commission, which is seeking to sort out the difficulties between these two nations and smooth them by negotiation, Italy agreed to accept an investigation of all the frontier incidents which have brought the position on the borders of Italian Somaliland and Eritrea to a serious crisis.

But Italy excluded from the authority of the Commission the question of frontier delimitation.

ANOTHER VIEW

The Abyssinian delegation argued that the delimitation of the frontiers was closely connected with the rights and wrongs of the Ualul incidents; for, they suggested, the Italians were only attacked at these points when they crossed the Abyssinian border and attempted to seize rights there.

The Italians adhered to the position that it was possible to decide which party fired the first shot at Ualul and to fix an indemnity without bringing in the question of the frontier demarcation.—Reuter.

QUETTA FIGURES

London, June 7.

Official messages state that the range of the Quetta earthquake is estimated as having been 130 miles long and 20 miles broad. The total death-roll including Quetta and neighbouring villages is probably in excess of 40,000. The number of destitute refugees is estimated at not less than 15,000.

Supplies of food and medical comforts at Quetta are now adequate. The evacuation of British and Indian survivors continues with all possible speed.—United Press.

"LOCAL" DOLLAR ADVANCES

MARKET FIRMER TO-DAY

The Hongkong dollar rose a farthing this morning to 2s. 3½d. The market opened at 2s. 4½d/16d. and later firmed up to a rate of 2s. 4½d. The market is very steady.

In London, silver prices advanced 8/16ths yesterday. India bought, while China operated both ways on a steady market.

N.R.A. EXTENSION APPROVED

Washington, June 7.

The House of Representatives to-day approved and forwarded to the Senate, a resolution for the extension of the skeletonised N.R.A.

The House first rejected a Republican attempt to give the Federal Trade Commission instead of the President power to approve of voluntary codes.

Meanwhile, it is announced that President Roosevelt will accept the resignation of Mr. Donald Richberg, head of the N.R.A. This resignation becomes effective on June 16 when the N.R.A. expires.—Reuter.

RICHBERG SOON TO LEAVE OFFICE

MAKE-UP HINTS

By MAX FACTOR

POWDER... the first essential is face powder to harmonize with my colourings, black hair, dark eyes, olive skin. Max Factor's Olive Powder is correct. A colour harmony tone, richly beautiful, to enhance the beauty of the skin. Fine in texture, it adheres perfectly and creates a satin-smooth make-up that clings for hours.

ROUGE... next, to impart a youthful, natural glow of colour to the cheeks, rouge must, of course, harmonize with your face powder and your colourings. Max Factor's Raspberry Rouge is correct for me. A perfect colour-tone, and creamy-smooth, like finest skin-texture, it blends evenly... imparting a delicate, lifelike colouring.

LIPSTICK... last, and so very important, is lip make-up to accent the lovely appeal of your lips. Max Factor's Super-Indelible Crimson Lipstick completes my colour harmony make-up. It's moisture-proof, the colour is natural and permanent and once I've made up my lips I know they'll appear perfect for hours.

When you see the lovely beauty of Claudette Colbert flash upon the screen, you know that she gives extra thought to her make-up. Each detail is perfect, yet unobtrusive... it is the vision of beauty that attracts and impresses.

"To me, make-up means the accentuation of nature's colourings," explains Claudette Colbert. "That is why colour harmony make-up, created by Max Factor, is so perfect. The colour tones of powder, rouge and lipstick harmonize to bring out a new enchanting loveliness."

New loveliness for you, too... for you may now share the luxury of colour harmony make-up, created originally for the screen stars by Max Factor, Hollywood's make-up genius.

Rene Clair to Direct Donat

LAUGHTON AS CYRANO

Rene Clair will direct his first British picture for London Film Productions this month.

The star of this film will be Robert Donat, who was last seen in the title role in "The Count of Monte Cristo," and has since made "Thirty-nine Steps."

Rene Clair stated that he has been anxious to direct Robert Donat ever since he saw him while on a visit to London in the stage play, "The Sleeping Clergyman." He regards Robert Donat as one of the greatest young male actors yet discovered for the international screen.

As soon as Rene Clair has completed the Robert Donat starring vehicle, he will direct another London Film Production with Charles Laughton in the leading role.

This will be Edmund Rostand's famous play, "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Charles Laughton will play Cyrano and Penelope Dudley Ward is to be Roxane.

Miss Dudley Ward is being promoted to the leading woman's part after only one picture, "Escape Me Never."

MARLENE DIETRICH'S FUTURE

Marlene Dietrich, the German film star, has in Hollywood signed a new contract with Paramount at the rate of £100,000 a year—£50,000 each for two films a year. That is the greatest sum she has yet received.

Under the new agreement she will no longer be directed by Josef Von Sternberg, who has guided her in her films since her arrival in Hollywood, with the exception of "Song of Songs."

Ernst Lubitsch, who had been mentioned as her next director, is out of the running owing to executive duties.

LILIAN HARVEY

Lilian Harvey, the film actress, stepped into the witness-box at Barnet (Hertfordshire) Police Court recently wearing her film make-up. She had come straight from a "set" at Elstree.

She told of a motor car collision in which she was involved.

Harry John Arthur White, of Studios Parade, Shenley Road, Boreham Wood, was summoned for driving a motor car dangerously at Elstree.

Lilian Harvey, who gave her address as Brockley Hall, Stanmore, said she was a passenger in her brother's motor car when White drove round a bend in the road on his wrong side and his motor car collided with theirs.

White, who pleaded that the lights of a stationary motor omnibus dazzled him, was fined £10.

KAY FRANCIS'S PLANS

Kay Francis, the film actress, has arrived in Paris on a flying visit before going to London.

"Afterwards," she states, "I intend to go to Cannes. It is only after I have conferred with Maurice Chevalier that I shall come to a decision about my next film. Maurice is an excellent comrade."

POISON FATAL TO MOTHS

READYING the house for summer, packing away winter apparel, rugs and blankets is the most important household work of the year. Inspect carefully for moth eggs and larvae, air and sun a-plenty, brush briskly and apply generously a dependable deterrent. These rules should be followed to insure against ravages during the summer. Moths die only by suffocation or contact with poison.

If liquids are used, spray garments freely, storing immediately in closets, trunks, boxes or bundles with all openings sealed by gummed tape or paraffin. Paper wrappings should be thick, unbroken and with folded edges doubled back to prevent moth crawling in.

Flakes, crystals, and gum camphor must be used in quantities of one pound to each ten cubic feet of space in tightly permanently sealed compartments.

Pumice dispensers hung in closets constantly used are totally ineffective. Clothes worn often or dry-cleaned are not subject to attack. Encase vacuumed rugs after treatment in sealed rolls.

Slip-covers are a paradise for moths. Remove them often, brushing upholstery with stiff whisk-broom and treating fabric. Store fur coats. Expensive clothes bags are sheer exploitation. Moths do not eat cotton. Avoid bulk purchases at low prices, buying only the best remedies made by responsible firms. Read directions carefully and follow them exactly.

Buckingham Palace nearly 20 years ago, is now to be screened as a talkie by Rex Wilson, one of the pioneers of the film industry in Britain.

The picture, which goes into production in the next few weeks at the Consolidated Studios, Elstree, is part of the extensive programme of the newly formed £1,000,000 organisation, Anglo-American Renters (Ltd.).

Rex Wilson was responsible for the old silent production of "Tilly of Bloomsbury" and "Quinnys."

TWINS FOR RICHARD DIX

Virginia Webster, the wife of Richard Dix, the film actor, has given birth at Hollywood to twin boys weighing respectively 6 lb. 9 ozs. and 6 lb. 2 ozs.

Richard Dix rushed from the hospital to spread the news, says "Lester." "I'm just twice as happy as I thought I would be," he said.

"SAVE MARRIAGE" CAMPAIGN

APPEAL FOR CONCILIATORY

WRECKED HOMES

Social workers and others in close touch with British Police Courts are gravely alarmed at the growing number of matrimonial cases in which marriages which might be saved are wrecked through lack of conciliatory machinery in the Courts, says the British Social Hygiene Council, in a statement issued in connection with the appeal which is being made by Lord Stanley of Alderley for £100,000 for widening the work of the Council.

"Mr. Mullins' experiment in the North London Police Court more than a year ago would, it was confidently hoped," the Council states, "lead to the installation of conciliatory methods in our other summary Courts. This, however, has not proved to be the case, and an overwhelming majority of Police Courts are still without any machinery of this kind."

"Mr. Mullins asked the British Social Hygiene Council to assist him in the formation of a panel of medical psychologists who would be prepared to advise the parties in domestic disputes in the hope that homes and families might not be broken up."

"The experiment was successful both at the North London Police Court, and at the South-Western Police Court, at which Mr. Mullins is now Magistrate. Since I came here in November a large number of these domestic cases have been referred to members of the medical panel, and a number of married couples have been reconciled—and put on sound lines for the future," he said. "The beneficial effects on the parties concerned and on their children are bound to be great."

REPORT AWAITED

"The report of the Summary Courts (Social Services) Committee, which was set up by the Home Office to hear evidence and to consider the whole question of conciliatory measures in matrimonial cases, is anxiously awaited. It is hoped that the recommendations of the Committee will be available soon, and that the result will be that either separate matrimonial courts or some other measures will be taken with official cognizance to check the toll of wrecked marriages."

"The British Social Hygiene Council has presented a mass of evidence to the Committee. In one court where the position was analysed it was found that out of 472 matrimonial cases 266 were due to ignorance in matters which a medical psychologist might have put right."

Mr. Neville Rolfe, secretary-general of the Council, which has played a leading role in the campaign to "save marriage," said:—"It has now become widely recognised that many applications for separation orders, in the early years of marriage particularly, are due to ignorance of the physical basis of marriage. The Council, with the aid of the B.M.A., readily responded to the suggestion of Mr. Mullins, the London Magistrate, and a panel of medical practitioners has now been formed in the south-western area to act in an advisory capacity when requested to do so by the Magistrate."

"There are two proposals before the Home Office Committee. One is for separate domestic courts, and the other for conciliatory machinery in existing courts."

"The work of the British Social Hygiene Council, which is this year celebrating its 21st anniversary, has as its central object the elimination of the scourge of venereal disease. Stability in marriage is essential if this is to be achieved. Lord Stanley of Alderley is now appealing for £100,000, so that the work of the council may be broadened."

100 YEARS HENCE

PAPER CLOTHES AND DISHES

CURE FOR COLDS
AND LOVE

Dr. Elizabeth Sloan Chesser visualises the world of a hundred years hence. Speaking at a luncheon in connection with the annual conference of the Electrical Association for Women, in Manchester, she said:—

"Electricity will be a panacea for everything, from cold in the head to unrequited love, for by increasing the physical and mental powers in the body you become magnetic, and in that way need never suffer from unrequited love."

"Electricity is making domestic city popular among women. Our great-great-grandchildren in 2022 will not need vacuum cleaners.
They will just walk into a room with a little box, and by centrifugal force all the dust and germs will be attracted into the electrical box."

"The women will be able to change their clothing, made of paper-like silk, twice a day, without the bother of cleaning them.
They will merely put them, along with the dishes, also of paper, into an electric furnace."

"Doctors will not prescribe drugs in the future. They will tell us to go on flying trips for health, to visit different countries and meet new people. The doctors of the future will look back on medicine to-day in the same way as we regarded the period of Nero, with his snakes and love potions,
and the witch doctors and medicine men of Africa."

"The world is now ruled by fear and hate. In that future we must have a new technique of courage and a will for peace."

"SOULLESS SCIENTISTS"

Professor W. L. Bragg, of Manchester University and a son of Sir William Bragg, the eminent scientist, said science and scientists had been getting hard knocks lately. There was a feeling that science had been overdone, that it was hurrying the world too much, finding out too many new things and upsetting people by giving them too many new powers.

Science was being held responsible for the horrors of war.

Scientists were pictured as completely soulless, heartless people, the embodiment of cruel reason.

"At the present mankind is in the middle of the greatest adventure of its history, a turning point—this great scientific adventure. People in years to come will look back on this time and wonder what it felt like to live now, when every few years saw the rate at which we could travel, our communications, our powers to make things—all our material powers—doubled and trebled in each generation."

A BARRIER BURST

It is not because a new race of supermen has appeared. Scientists have simply been studying nature and bending her to their will,
and in the last few years, quite suddenly, a sort of barrier has burst. Man has had an enormous wealth of new powers given him.
It is extraordinarily important that people should understand these new powers. The power which nature hid most jealously has appeared, summed up in the word
"electricity."

Sir John Brooke, vice-chairman of the Electricity Commissioners, said the most inimical feature of industrial civilisation was its concentration of noisy workplaces, smoke, and dirt.

It was due to the incompetent marriage of industry and the steam engine, and from that electricity offered an easy and economical divorce.

It had been stated that smoke
cost Manchester £750,000 a year, and that the weekly washing time

LEGATION ELEVATED

DR. WELLINGTON KOO AS AMBASSADOR TO FRANCE

Nanking, June 7.

The Chinese Foreign Office has been informed of the French Government's consent to the appointment of Dr. Wellington Koo as the first Chinese Ambassador to France. But the formal announcement of the appointment by the Nanking Government will not be made until the French Government makes a reciprocal appointment.

Dr. Wellington Koo has been Chinese Minister to France since October 1932 and concurrently, China's representative to the League of Nations. From 1916-1922 he was Minister to Mexico, United States and Great Britain, becoming delegate to the Paris and Washington Conferences in 1922-1924.

At various times he was Minister for Foreign Affairs and acting Premier in Peking. For a short time he was again Foreign Minister in Nanking in 1931. Between January-September 1932 he was Chinese assessor on the Lytton Commission of inquiry into the Manchurian affair.

AMERICAN BRIDE

MISS C. ANDERSON WEDS MR. G. ROCKHOLTZ

The American community were well represented among the guests at St. Joseph's Church, Garden Road, yesterday evening when a charming American visitor, Miss C. Anderson, B.S., became the bride of Mr. George Otto Rockholtz, Dipl. Agr.
The Rev. Father Riganelli officiated at the ceremony. A song and violin solo were given by Mrs. R. Sanger and Mr. John Braga.

University Graduate
The bride arrived here from Shanghai on Thursday aboard the President Coolidge. Since October of last year, the bride and her sister, Miss Kathleen Anderson, have been galls at the American Consulate, Shanghai. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, reside in Seattle. The bride is a graduate of the Washington University and this is her first visit to Hongkong.

Mr. Rockholtz, who is connected with the Texas Co., is the son of Mr. Wilhelm Rockholtz of Berlin, Prussia. He has been in South China for the last five years and is a graduate of the Berlin and Hamburg Universities.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of Dr. F. Sommers, looked lovely in a white organdie dress with a flower patterned dress of French design. Her little white organdie halo-styled hat was trimmed with small orange blossoms. She carried an old-fashioned posy of white flowers.

Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Kathleen Anderson, attired in a blue organdie dress and carrying a posy of pink flowers.
Little Eleanor Sanger, as flower girl, wore a blue "Kate Greenaway" styled gown and carried pink rosebuds.
Mr. B. C. Lawrence, district manager of the Texas Co., was best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Abernethy Court and later the happy couple left for the honeymoon which is being spent at Repulse Bay Hotel. On leaving, Mrs. Rockholtz wore a three piece white linen suit.

FLIGHT TO H.K.

AIR FORCE MACHINES ON RECORD DASH

Two Royal Air Force Singapore III flying boats will attempt a record making dash from Singapore to Hongkong on June 20.

Information to this effect was made public yesterday.
The machines will be the largest yet seen in this Colony. Powered with four 800-horse power engines, they have a cruising range and speed far in excess to any other flying boat in the Far East. They are two of the machines of No. 205 Squadron attached to the R.A.F. in Singapore and recently flew out there from Home.

The machines will attempt to cross from Singapore to Hongkong in less than 48 hours totally elapsed time, which will include an overnight stay in French Indo-China.
Leaving Singapore at daylight on June 20 they will arrive at Kramah Bay before dusk, and will set out to fly direct from there to Hongkong on the following morning.

They are scheduled to arrive in Hongkong early in the same afternoon.

It is understood that the machines, after a short stay in Hongkong, will return to Singapore via the Philippine Islands and British North Borneo.
During the return flight they will continue the aerial survey, commenced last year, of the route between Singapore and Hongkong. This route will, if used, overcome the obstacle at present provided to an extension of the Imperial Airways service to Hongkong—the refusal of the Chinese Government to grant facilities for flying over its territory.

The two R.A.F. machines will not touch Chinese territory during the entire flight to and from Hongkong. The major portion of both outward and inward flights will be made over water.

Feathering your nest is a bird of an idea.

TWO MEN COMMITTED TO CRIMINAL SESSIONS

Two unemployed men, Tam Lin-fong, 29, and Kong Ho, 31, were committed to stand trial at the next Criminal Sessions by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday, on a charge of having committed, with another not in custody, a robbery at No. 1 Cornwall Road, Kowloon Tong, on May 12.

They were charged with robbing three women, Chan Kit-mui, Ho Mo-yung and Tsoi Yuet-wah, of a quantity of jewellery worth $581.

Ho Mo-yung, married woman, stated that, at 6 a.m. on May 12 she was suddenly awakened by someone grabbing her by the throat, and saw a man pointing a sharp fire-like weapon at her throat, who said, "Keep quiet, or I'll stab you." When witness asked the man what he was doing he said, "Keep quiet."

Witness removed her bangle and a ring and handed them to the man, who then bound and gagged her. Two other men came in and ransacked the room. One of the men, first defendant, addressed witness as "Kau Koo Kung" and asked her where she kept her ring, and also asked her for her watch. Witness told first defendant that she had lent her ring to someone, and that her watch was in a drawer.

"Prepared to Die"
In telling witness to "keep quiet," second defendant said, "You have money and don't want to die. I haven't any money and am quite prepared to die."

The two men after searching the room left, but before doing so the taller of the two, second defendant, said, "Don't report this or I will stab you in a week's time." The men then went into the next room. About ten minutes later the man came up and released witness. A telephone message was sent to the police, who arrived shortly after.

At a later date witness identified three men at the Kowloon City Police Station. The first two men were two of the robbers, the other was the gardener, who did not take part in the robbery at all.

Second defendant denied that he threatened to stab witness if she reported the matter, and alleged that it was the man who had not been arrested.

Inspector W. R. Chester-Woods testified to receiving a telephone message. He went to No. 1 Cornwall Road and found the house in a state of disorder. A search was made and in a corner of the scullery a file was found standing point upwards. Two other daggers were also found in the scullery.

Formal police evidence was given by W. P. Thompson, Assistant Superintendent of Police (Kowloon), and Lo Yung-shing, interpreter. The men were then committed for trial.

MR. MACDONALD'S RETIREMENT

Normally, the resignation of a British Prime Minister is a political event of high importance and significance. No such description can, however, be applied to the replacement of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald by Mr. Baldwin. Not that the retiring Premier has not rendered high service to his country; without question, he has. But for some considerable time past, largely from reasons of health, Mr. MacDonald has been little other than nominal leader of the Government. He has also, because of a certain lack of definiteness in his recent utterances, lost a considerable measure of the popularity and prestige which he held in the early days of the National Government's existence. With the Government predominantly Conservative in political complexion, it is more in keeping with the realities that Mr. Baldwin should take over its leadership. Yet Mr. MacDonald's retirement for all practical purposes from active political life does mark a definite stage in the evolution of British politics. It is early in the day as yet to assess at its true worth Mr. MacDonald's contribution to his day and time. Looking back over his career, it must be conceded that it has been in many respects a remarkable one. The son of a farm labourer, who later became a pupil teacher, then went to London practically penniless, took up journalism, and eventually found his way into political activity. Mr. MacDonald will go down in history as Britain's first Socialist Prime Minister. By deep study when a youth, and by his eagerness to learn, both by travel and by reading, he became a man of culture. In his early days, he was a rabid Socialist, and in the Great War he made no secret of the fact that he was an out-and-out pacifist, whilst again and again he figured prominently in Labour strike movements. But gradually he weaned himself from the more extreme element of the Socialists, and it was not altogether surprising that when the nation was faced with a financial crisis of the first magnitude, he should come out boldly for a National Government, making his decision, so it is said, without even consulting his former colleagues. This dramatic move, by which he placed country above party, gave him an enormously enhanced prestige and was without doubt a turning point for the better in the fortunes of the nation. For this, his name deserves to be remembered amongst other great leaders of the past. Later, Mr. MacDonald has lost contact with most of his former Labour colleagues, as well as with the rank and file of his old party. He has, indeed, incurred Labour wrath by inferring that it is the party, and not himself, which has forsaken true Labour principles. Actually, advancing years and responsibility have undoubtedly changed his political outlook, so that to-day his views are scarcely distinguishable from those of progressive Conservatives. Now he can lay down the high office which he has held for several years, conscious of duty well done. The Government is still in capable hands under the leadership of Mr. Baldwin, the veteran statesman whose reputation never stood higher and whose honesty of purpose is beyond question. The reshuffling of posts strengthens its position rather than otherwise, a fact in which Britons everywhere can find cause for much satisfaction.

NOTES OF THE DAY

SCARING UP WAR

Numerous are the uses of the war scare. It will sell newspapers, as any bright newboy might observe, and as all news editors know. It will provide business for munitions makers. It will consolidate public opinion and take the people's mind off domestic troubles. And it will help with electioneering. In a preface he has written for a book on National Labour Party policy, published recently, the retiring British Prime Minister says that "war scares have become a stock-in-trade of partisan fighting." And Mr. MacDonald is not vague about what he has found to be the popular press's contribution to these scares: "The selling value of a popular newspaper whose aim is circulation, is headlines. And the selling headline must provide a daily thrill. The most ordinary event must be sensational, 'astounding,' 'a monstrous scandal' and what not. Rumour is made to rank with fact, and necessary hysteria is supplied by invention which has not even the value of rumour. This is one of the gravest dangers public opinion and democratic judgment have now to face in domestic affairs. But when international matters are dealt with in the same way, the danger to world peace is of the gravest kind."

ABUSE OF SENTIMENT

Mr. MacDonald's concern with the abuses of public sentiment through the scare headline is widely shared by thoughtful people. His expression of this concern is peculiarly timely because of the tense feeling—amounting in some countries to a war scare—that has gripped much of the world. In Great Britain it is expected that Mr. MacDonald's preface to the Labour policy book is also a preface to attempts at more stringent press control. A big question would be raised by such attempts. They might involve the very freedom of speech which is a fundamental of democracy. They might result in the press's being more easily abused for political purposes than it is to-day. Actually it is not so difficult as it may appear for news readers to discriminate between the necessarily disturbing news of international affairs and that which is merely destructively sensational. That they do not discriminate is due no more to ignorance than to inertia. Perhaps Mr. MacDonald's observations will help to break that inertia. The peoples are taking a bigger part in the policies of nations to-day than they may imagine, and that, no doubt, is why the ex-Prime Minister would impress upon the public the fact that "Secret diplomacy was bad; the diplomacy of papers out for circulation and of parties out for votes is deadly."

TO-DAY'S MOTORING HINT

WHEN OVERTAKING

Many accidents occur when one vehicle is overtaking another. Before attempting to overtake a slower moving vehicle it is necessary to wait for the come-on signal from the other driver.

In this connection, however, it should be remembered that such a signal should not be obeyed implicitly, since some drivers are apt to give it without due regard to the traffic conditions at the time.

The driver of a commercial vehicle cannot always estimate the speed at which cars are travelling, and in ignorance may wave on a following driver when the accelerating powers of the car are not equal to the occasion.

It is always advisable to satisfy oneself that there is ample room to overtake and regain the near-side of the road without incommencing on coming vehicles. It is a case where the driver of the overtaking car must judge for himself.

terly, Mr. MacDonald has lost contact with most of his former Labour colleagues, as well as with the rank and file of his old party. He has, indeed, incurred Labour wrath by inferring that it is the party, and not himself, which has forsaken true Labour principles. Actually, advancing years and responsibility have undoubtedly changed his political outlook, so that to-day his views are scarcely distinguishable from those of progressive Conservatives. Now he can lay down the high office which he has held for several years, conscious of duty well done. The Government is still in capable hands under the leadership of Mr. Baldwin, the veteran statesman whose reputation never stood higher and whose honesty of purpose is beyond question. The reshuffling of posts strengthens its position rather than otherwise, a fact in which Britons everywhere can find cause for much satisfaction.

MEN DON'T MARRY FIRST LOVES

By MISS CLEMENCE DANE

One of the most versatile and stimulating of women writers, the author of "A Bill of Divorcement" and other famous plays and of several novels which have attracted widespread attention, here discusses the arresting comment made by Mr. Justice Swift in the High Court—"Very few men, I imagine, marry the woman that they first tell they love."

EVERY now and then Life jerks out of some reluctant spectator a comment which makes history. The more obvious the comment the more enjoyable the discussion it arouses, especially if it draws attention to a fact that we have only realised subconsciously, as a husband realises the colour of his wife's eyes. "Come to think of it, I believe you're right. They are blue!" Shakespeare was adept at such simple-subtle revelations: "The apparel oft proclaims the man," "Conscience does make cowards of us all." Indeed, he often based not a mere sentence but a whole play upon such a remark as that of Mr. Justice Swift.

How many of us remember, as we shake our heads over the decay of constancy, that Romeo's first love was not Juliet?

Feather of lead, bright smoke, cold fire, sick health!

Still asking breath that is not what it is!

This love, I feel—declares Romeo; but his mind is running on a lady called Rosaline! Yet this Rosaline is in a few hours forgotten; for "very few men marry the woman they first tell they love."

Adam's first love was Lilith, not Eve. Jacob waited seven years for Rachel, and was given Leah. Dante fell in love with the nine-years-old Beatrice, and followed her to heaven. But he married Gemma.

Shakespeare and Shelley did marry their first loves, to their eternal regret; but William Blake spent his first hour with his Catherine in describing to her, with immense emotion, his unrequited love for another woman. He was so eloquent that at last—"I do pity you," said his future wife.

"Do you?" returned the impetuous William, instantly brightening. "Then I love you!" And so he, like Romeo, forgot Rosaline for ever. For "very few men—" (how the phrase sticks in one's mind!) "very few men marry the woman they first tell they love."

Like all pithy sayings the remark instantly begs questions. Is it a good thing that first love doesn't last? Should it? Could it? Is it Nature's fault if it doesn't, or is it the fault of our civilisation?

The pace of living is nowadays so swift that it is necessarily accompanied by swift developments in character. People don't "stay put" as they did. Can an adolescent marriage "stay put" either? Must adolescence be deprived of marriage until its character sets for life, or should there be a system of trial marriages for the young?

Finally, is the reverse of the remark true? Do "very few women marry the first man whom they tell that they love?"

I should say that most women do marry the first man they tell they love. But that does not mean that they marry their first loves. For custom still decrees that men propose, and so women are preserved, if they choose, from any confession of a feeling which may not be mutual. They can afford to wait.

And in this they are lucky, for thus they escape the "branch of promise" menace. They need not fear later ridicule because at eighteen they felt and behaved as youth has a right to feel and behave.

Not everybody, of course, allows them the right. To the poet first love may be a "violet in the youth of primy nature," but to the average parent it is an emotional menace, to be cured according to your school of thought. The paternal school believes in ignoring the whole situation.

"Oh, no, we never mention him, his name is never heard," or alternatively in hurrying off the sufferer to the Riviera for a nice change.

The maternal school of medicine, on the other hand, treats first love as they used to treat measles in old-fashioned nurseries. There was no question of preventive remedies. "Let 'em catch it and get it over." Just so, the maternal policy is generally to throw them together till they are sick of the sight of one another. The cure is quick and lasting, and everybody is pleased.

But why, why is everybody pleased? Why do we all agree to regard a unique emotional experience as valueless just because it does not last? Is durability the only test? Then why did we put up Jubilee decorations and enjoy looking at them? I heard the other day of a poor man who was left a legacy of fifty pounds, and spent the whole of it on a journey to Egypt because he wanted to see the Sphinx. But his relations wanted him to buy a Government bond. Who was the wiser, he or they?

It depends, I suppose, simply and solely on one's years. Youth asks only to feel. Age asks only to feel safe. And if youth could stay young and middle-age be born forty years old, all would be well. The trouble is that youth can't stay young.

The lively human caterpillar reverses the natural process by declining into a slow-fluttering moth. It forgets the Sphinx and discovers the income tax. Then, and naturally, it furiously regrets its fifty pounds and has no words but enough for its former self.

But sometimes the middle-aged are punished for their contempt. The doctors tell us that people who escape measles in youth seldom contract it in later life, but that when they do the consequences can be serious.

It is just the same with love. The men or women who have never experienced the delirium of calf love should look out when they feel the fifties. For if they do catch the complaint they will become as insane and very much more ridiculous than any luckless young couple hopefully on the road to Gretna Green.

For luckless Youth in the lumbering stage coach of romance seldom gets as far as Gretna Green. ("Very few men marry the woman they first tell they love"). But Maturity in its limousine rolls down all too easily to Reno.

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

For the second Monday in succession there's to be a holiday. So whilst Geneva discusses the 40-hour week, Hongkong gets it.

Maybe when local bankers say money is tight they mean that the Hongkong dollar keeps staggering about.

Newspaper headline:—"H.M.S. Cleala in Brush with Pirates." Presumably a Jack-Tar Brush!

Nobody seems to have thought of calling the Hongkong night displays last month "Jubilations."

A statesman recently talked over a 25,000-mile telephone circuit to prove that "there are no earthly limits to human speech." A visit to Ice House Street proves the same thing.

A local typist was recently dismissed for reading a novel at work. She lost her place.

A reader wants to know what is a test of good cocktails. No mourning after.

Which calls to mind the fact that a writer in a medical journal recently stated that intoxication can be caused by ordinary water. This should restore its lost prestige as a beverage.

The only claim of some people to being folk of considerable standing rests on their being strap-hangers.

"Burglar With Sense of Humour," says a heading. Most likely a wisecracksmen.

We heard a woman say the other day that young couples shouldn't hesitate to get married on $200 a month. Well, the young people are willing enough; but where is the $200 coming from?

A reader wants to know where the biggest palm in Hongkong can be found. We suggest that he tries some of the hotels.

According to a political writer, "the tocsin of war is sounding again." It would be all right if we could only find an anti-tocsin.

A local contemporary announced that Mr. Teng Yu-chi received the C.B.E. decoration in the Birthday Honours. Unfortunately, the claims of Mr. Sha Ng-hai appear to have been overlooked.

A bachelor says most modern girls in Hongkong are like mere animated dolls. All the same, they don't often call "Mamma" when they are squeezed.

A reader is curious to know what Kowloon women talk about at tea parties. Nineteen to the dozen!

A fire recently occurred in a saxophone factory in New York. But the Brigade arrived before any real good was done.

There was a time when young women painted china. Now they concentrate on their finger-nails.

The quickest way for a man to know what's wearing this summer is to look in the mirror.

Maurice Chevallier has deserted the movies for the French music halls. Now Hollywood will have to keep a stiff upper lip in the absence of a famed lower one.

Husbands who rebel at the cost of wives' hats seem to forget their entertainment value.

Phrenology is again coming into its own. A large lump on a man's forehead indicates that he's of an argumentative disposition.

Drink prices are going down in Hongkong. So's the drink.

"Say, which one of these cats is ours?"

VIGNETTES OF LIFE

By J. NORMAN LYND

INNOCENT CONVICT FREED

WILL AID POLICE QUEST

"I WILL GO STRAIGHT"

"A man cannot describe his feelings when he is sentenced to seven years' imprisonment for an offence he has not committed. The first week of the sentence nearly killed me."

These are the words of John Binney, the 31-year-old Sheffield fitter, who has spent ten months of a seven years' sentence in Dartmoor Prison for an offence of which he was innocent.

Binney returned to his home in Rockingham Street, Sheffield, recently. The street, in which the Binney family live, had been decorated by neighbours in honour of the occasion.

Last July Binney was sentenced at Derbyshire Assizes to penal servitude on a charge of demanding money by menaces from Mrs. Hilda Annie Cliff of the Rising Sun Hotel, Bamford. Binney was alleged to have written letters demanding £200 from Mrs. Cliff. The letters contained threats to kill her if she did not comply.

At the trial handwriting experts differed, but the jury decided that Binney wrote the letters. But since Binney has been in Dartmoor, other letters have been received in the same writing.

So the Home Office took the unusual course of referring the case to the Court of Criminal Appeal, where Binney's own appeal had already been dismissed, and the conviction was quashed.

FULL OF EXCITEMENT

In an interview with a correspondent Binney said: "On Tuesday I was mystified at being brought to London. I knew something was happening, but what I could not guess. The warden who brought me up from Dartmoor could not tell me anything."

"I was taken to Brixton Prison for the night, but I did not sleep for one moment, and I could not eat the breakfast they offered me. People may not believe this of a fairly hardened criminal like myself. But it is true. I was full of excitement."

"Two petitions I had made to the Home Secretary had already failed to get my case reopened. Unknown to me, fresh evidence was being gathered. The first I knew of it was when I spoke to Mr. Reginald Ashworth, my solicitor, a few moments before stepping into the dock at the Court. He did not tell me what it was. He said I should hear it all."

TO HELP THE POLICE

"My feelings were mixed when I heard my counsel, Mr. A. J. Flint, tell the Court that since I had been in prison Mrs. Cliff had received further menacing letters written in what was supposed to be my handwriting."

"I was elated, and yet I felt sorry that the man who had caused me such misery and wrong imprisonment was still going on with his vile work. What can one think of any one who lets another man go to prison for seven years and suffer as I had?"

"I at once made up my mind to do all I can to help the police to find this man. Don't forget that I have to return to Sheffield, my home, where this man is still at work."

"I am going home to live with my mother. I have sworn to myself I will go straight and never get into trouble again. Every convict does that, but I mean it after all this."

COMPENSATION POINT

The quashing of Binney's seven years' sentence after serving part of the time in prison is not without precedent, although there have been no notable cases of the kind within recent years.

The constitution of the Court of Criminal Appeal was substantially the outcome of the noted Adolf Beck case, in which an innocent man suffered over five years' imprisonment and was granted £5,000.

One of the outstanding cases of recent times was the quashing of the conviction of Mrs. Johnson, who was granted a free pardon after serving 18 months' imprisonment, it being alleged that she had written threatening letters.

On the point whether compensation is granted after the quashing of a conviction, application must first be made to the State by the wrongfully convicted person. No decision on this point has yet been made by Binney's legal advisers.

Compensation has been given to several persons whose convictions have been quashed, the amounts varying from £5,000 in Beck's case to £2 in a case in which two

CANTON STEEL WORKS

NEGOTIATIONS FOR HUGE LOAN COMPLETED

Canton, June 7. Further progress has been made in the negotiations between the Canton Government representatives abroad and foreign industrial concerns, for the $40,000,000 loans to the Canton Provincial Government for the establishment of a steel and iron manufacturing in Canton. The negotiations have been carried out by the Chinese Consul-General at Honolulu, Mr. Li Fong, on behalf of the Kwangtung Provincial Government.

The loan will be obtained from American banking and commercial interests. Of the amount, $40,000,000, Canton currency, $30,000,000 will be used for the purchase of machinery and the remaining $10,000,000 will be for the building of the factory and other equipment. The Chinese Consul-General at Honolulu may shortly visit Canton to report personally to the Kwangtung Government before signing the contract for the loan.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

"BANKRUPT" BANKS

Shanghai, June 8. In accordance with the newly promulgated regulations governing bank bankruptcy cases, the Chinese Ministry of Finance has appointed liquidators to take over control of the assets of the Ningpo Industrial Bank, the Minghua Savings Bank, the Kiangnan Bank and ten other native banks all of which closed within the past few weeks.—Central News.

The draft of an Ordinance to amend further the law relating to merchant shipping has been issued. This is necessitated by the extension to the Colony of the Merchant Shipping (Safety and Load Line Convention) Act of 1932.

Monday being Whit Monday is a general holiday. It is notified that the General Post Office will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and the branch post offices from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. There will be one collection from the pillar boxes and one delivery of ordinary correspondence as on Sundays and one delivery of registered correspondence at 9.30 a.m. The Money Order office will be entirely closed.

Months out of a sentence of three years had been served.

Among those who have received compensation was Oscar Slater, who had served many years of a life sentence for murder of which he was wrongly convicted.

SZECHUEN TROOPS DEFEATED

Canton, June 7.

According to a local representative of the 24th Szechuen Army, it is stated that over 30,000 Reds under Chu Teh are now on their way to Sihong, crossing the western border of Szechuen, near Luting and Hongting.

A telegram from another Szechuen delegate at Kweichow reveals that the Reds are entering Sihong by three different routes from Luting, Tachinlu and Hongting. Fighting has been reported from these three points since the beginning of this week. General Liu Wen-hui, Commander of the 24th Szechuen Army left for the Hongting front on the 4th inst. to direct operations there. Another telegram states that the Reds concentrated their main force against Luting which is now in a very dangerous position.

Luting is an important strategic point on the Sihong-Szechuen border, and its fall may lead to their penetrating the interior of Sihong Province.

It is learned in military circles here that General Liu Wen-hui has fortified Hongting and Tachinlu to check the further advance of the Reds to Sihong and it is believed that General Liu will hold these two important points pending arrival of reinforcements from Szechuen.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

Five Regiments Routed

Canton, June 7.

Five regiments of Szechuen provincial forces were wiped out by the Communists under Hsu Hsiang-ch'ien near Changming in Northern Szechuen. The outlaws are attempting to get to Maokung in the North-western district to join up with the Reds under Chu Teh.

General Chiang Kai-shek has ordered three divisions from Shensi to advance into Szechuen to attack Hsu Hsiang-ch'ien in the rear. The situation in Szechuen is becoming worse as the desperadoes have penetrated to Lo-ling in Sikang and will turn North to occupy Tienchuan in Szechuen. They

SEEKS NEW RECORD

SIR KINGSFORD SMITH'S NEXT ADVENTURE

Los Angeles, June 7.

Mr. P. G. Morris, official representative of Sir Kingsford Smith, said that Sir Kingsford had cabled from Sydney saying that it was his intention soon to fly the Lady Southern Cross from Australia via New York to London, for the purpose of then attempting to break the London-Melbourne record.

The plane in which he will make his attempt on the record is now in Burbank, California. The Australian Government banned it last year following Kingsford Smith's Australia-United States flight, but Mr. Morris said that Sir Kingsford hopes to fly as soon as the Government lifts the ban—unless someone should make an unexpected good offer to buy the plane.

There were strong indications that the Air Minister would lift the ban when they had considered the evidence we have of its fitness to fly.

Under the auspices of the programme sub-committee, the Wah Yan Past Students' Association will hold the second of a series of bathing picnics to Big Wave Bay this afternoon. As the launch will leave Queen's Pier at 2.15 p.m. sharp, members and their friends are kindly requested to be punctual.

go this way in order to avoid the heavy concentration of provincial troops at Hanyuan and Yachow.

The distance between Lo-ling and Maokung is about 75 miles. If the Red forces can merge, their combined strength will be about 120,000 men. Chu Teh's plan is to dash from Lo-ling to Tienchuan, thence to Maokung, which is further North. The gap of 75 miles can be covered by the outlaws in less than three days, provided no government forces intercept them.

The race is now on between Hsu Hsiang-ch'ien's men who are moving southward to Maokung and the three divisions rushing down from Shensi to attack Hsu. The next few days will decide whether the Reds will be checked or more menacing than ever.

NEW YORK OUTFITS IN CLOSE DUELS

YANKEES LOSE AS GIANTS WIN

New York, June 7. The two New York Clubs in the major Baseball League were engaged in close duels against Boston teams to-day.

The Giants managed to nose out the Braves in the National League after ten innings but the Yankees, in the American League, were beaten by two runs to one.

A double header between St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians was postponed on account of rain, which also caused the postponement of one match in the National League.

Results, as called by Reuter, follow:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

	R.	H.	E.
Boston	2	9	0
New York	3	7	0

(J. Moore and Melvin Ott scored home runs for the Giants. There were ten innings.)

	R.	H.	E.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA QUALIFY

Warsaw, June 7. Czechoslovakia eliminated Japan from the Davis Cup Competition to-day by winning by three matches to love.

The country will now meet in the semi-final the winners of the tie between South Africa and Poland. — Reuter.

FOISTED UPON PUBLIC

J. J. BRADDOCK DENOUNCED

BY PRESIDENT OF N. B. A.

Providence, R.I., June 7. "James J. Braddock is being foisted upon a gullible fight public in his role as contender for the heavyweight title held by Max Baer," said Mr. Edward C. Foster, President of the National Boxing Association, when discussing the current heavyweight situation. "Braddock," Mr. Foster continued, "isn't in the same class with Baer. He is merely the fortunate victim of a high-handed scheme to enrich some individuals connected with the fight game. It's an in-and-out, and although he did outscore Art Lasky in his most recent fight he didn't in my opinion, look like a title contender when he fought John Henry Lewis last December. Lewis should have been given the decision in that bout."

(Johnson scored a home run for the Athletics.)

Owing to rain the match between St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Reds was postponed.

LEADERS BADLY BEATEN

NINE WICKET DEFEAT AT WORCESTER

YORKSHIRE DISPLACE DERBY AT HEAD OF AFFAIRS

London, June 7. Rain throughout the country curtailed play in the majority of the county cricket championship matches but the weather at Worcester did not prevent Derbyshire, hitherto leaders in the championship race from being defeated by Worcestershire who won by nine wickets and thus enabled Yorkshire, who had previously beaten Hampshire in two days, to assume the leadership for the first time this season.

Derbyshire owe their defeat to the complete collapse of their batsmen in the second innings when Jackson and Howarth skidded out the side for 54 runs.

In their first innings Derbyshire secured a lead over their opponents by scoring 127 runs and then dismissing Worcestershire for 161. Mitchell had five victims for 56.

With both Jackson and Howarth in deadly form Derbyshire failed miserably in their second venture. Jackson took four for 14 and Howarth six for 16. Worcestershire lost one wicket in scoring 94 runs for victory.

The South Africans continue in winning vein and at Northampton they beat Northants by an innings and 25 runs by dismissing the county side for 129 and 123. J. C. Crisp, the fast bowler, captured six first innings wickets for 50 runs.

In their only innings the tourists compiled a total of 297.

A recovery in their second innings following their cheap dismissal in the first enabled Cambridge University to beat Somerset by 162 runs at Cambridge.

Andrews took seven wickets for 29 runs when the undergraduates went to the wickets to score but 16 runs but Rought-Rought completely demolished the Somerset batsmen who lost their last wicket for 66 runs. Rought-Rought had five for 41.

Jackson (Worcester v. Derby)	4 for 14
Smith (Leicester v. Gloucester)	4 for 27

In their second innings Cambridge declared at 292 for six, Nelson scoring 91 and Tindall 117. Somerset were sent back a second time for 160 runs.

The M.C.C. and Warwickshire were engaged in a drawn match at Lord's where the headquarters side scored 70 runs in an innings in which Mayer took five for 32 and Paine five for 20. When rain prevented further play Warwickshire had made 38 for two wickets.

Surrey and Sussex, at the Oval, were unable to come to any definite decision, each side taking four points. Surrey made 140, J. Parks taking six for 45 and then Sussex had 80 for one wicket when stumps were drawn.

The match at Blackburn between Lancashire and Glamorgan was also left without a decision on the first innings, when Glamorgan made 27 runs for two wickets in reply to Lancashire's total of 212.

Leicestershire captured points for a lead on the first innings in their match against Gloucestershire at Gloucester where the visitors made 97 and the hosts 72. C. Parker took seven wickets for 40 against Leicestershire while Smith had four for 27 against Gloucestershire.

Oxford University at Oxford were unable to complete their innings against the Minor Counties, scoring 169 for four wickets when stumps were drawn. — Reuter.

HELEN WILLS-MOODY

HELEN WILLS WINS

NEARLY BEATEN IN ENGLAND

EX-CHAMPION'S COME-BACK

(Special to "Telegraph")

Weybridge, June 7.

Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody, in her tennis come-back campaign, narrowly escaped an abrupt setback to-day when the former international champion barely defeated a promising young English player, Miss Mary Hardwick, in three sets.

Mrs. Moody won 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, but she was playing far under her old time form.

She was nearly eliminated in the second set.

To-morrow she meets Miss Billie York. — United Press.

After an interval of 18 months from the game she will naturally require extended practice if she is to regain her former position in the game. There is an old saying that a player "never comes back" once the racket has been laid aside for an extended period. This may not apply to the former American lady champion who is still young enough to take up her racket again with every hope of reproducing her great talent, which is now dormant.

If she has sufficient incentive, however, she will discover that her contemporaries, such as Miss Round, Miss Jacobs, Miss Mathieu and Miss Payot have steadily matured their games in the interval and will not be suffering from any inferiority complex if they meet her again in singles. There is moreover a new generation of players in the field—of whom Great Britain has her fair share—many of them capable of holding their own in international competition and likely to advance into the world class during the coming season.

Miss Round demonstrated in the final of the ladies' singles at Wimbledon two years ago, when she won a set from Mrs. Wills-Moody, that the gap between the American lady and her rivals was even then steadily closing, and the present Wimbledon lady champion has materially advanced her game since then.

Japan's outstanding woman swimmer, Miss Hidoko Maebata, who holds the world records for 200, 400 and 600 metres breast stroke, has announced her decision to retire after the Berlin Olympic games.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN AMBITIOUS

New York, June 7. Boasting triumphs over the heavyweight champions of Argentina, Chile and Peru, Tommy Loughran, former cruiser weight champion of the world and unequalled exponent of the finest points in real boxing, has returned from his tour of South America and is anxious to fight Max Baer.

Tommy, who had intended to take a cruise around Cape Horn, abandoned this plan to hurry home to Philadelphia, when informed that his mother, Mrs. Anna Loughran, was in a Philadelphia hospital suffering from heart disease.

GREAT SHOTS IN GOLF DESCRIBED

A NIP AND TUCK BATTLE

TITLE WON BY ONE STROKE

MASHIE-NIBLICK SHOT

After a nip and tuck battle that saw him three up at the end of the first 18 holes, and then one down facing the 13th hole of the afternoon round, Johnny Farrell displayed the courage that makes champions in the playoff for the U. S. Open Championship at Olympia Fields, Chicago, in 1928 against the great Bobby Jones.

The 13th is a par three hole, 130 yards long. Jones, taking the honour, laid his tee shot hole high 12 feet to the left of the pin. Farrell then maddened the gallery with the shot, which, according to Johnny's brother, Jimmy, gave him the courage to carry on to the title. He almost holed a mashie-niblick from the tee, the ball landing one foot from the hole. Bobby's putt for a birdie was inches to the left. Farrell got his two and they again were even.

A NEW SERIES OF GOLF ARTICLES BY ART KRENZ

The 14th and 15th were played alike. On the 16th, Farrell picked up a stroke after Jones overdrove the green, and on the 17th had to shoot a birdie to keep the lead.

The 18th was played in even strokes and Johnny was the new champion, winning by one stroke, 143 to 144.

Farrell plays his mashie-niblick shots with an open stance. The club is slightly closed. With the left arm straight, he swings at the ball, rather than punching at it. To get the necessary backswing, the clubhead travels downward until the ball is hit. The follow through is always toward the hole, and when finishing the swing the club points toward the objective.

Tourists From Hawaii In Tientsin

VISITING BOXERS WIN

FIGHTS AGAINST LOCAL MEN

(Special to "Telegraph")

Tientsin, June 7.

In a boxing tournament here last night, McCredy, the visitor from Hawaii, fought Gray of the U.S. Infantry but no decision was reached, in an eight round contest that was slow, with both players fighting cautiously.

Other results were as follows: Angelucci (Hawaii) gained the decision over Vallois, a Tientsin Russian.

Kraft of Hawaii beat Maher, a British soldier.

Viveiros (Hawaii) defeated Brunsziff, a Tientsin Russian; Jaworsky (Hawaii) and Brown, of the U.S. Infantry, reached no decision in their fight.

Sordini technically knocked out Velisoff who was floored three times in the first round and could not return for the second. — United Press.

HER SECOND VICTORY IN ENGLAND

ANITA LIZANA WINS AGAIN

YOUNG CHILEAN TENNIS STAR

London May 12.

The sunshine and shade of Hurlingham was very pleasant for watching tennis yesterday; but the spectators had the best of it for there was a baffling wind and a good deal of sand blowing on the courts. Nevertheless, both the singles finally produced good play and exciting matches.

The first to finish was the women's singles flower, the Chilean, Anita Lizana, of Chile, had still any lingering doubts as to whether her home form could hold its own in Europe, they must have been dispelled after she had won the singles at her first London tournament from a very fairly strong field. Her opponent yesterday was Mrs. Strawson, the pace of whose driving first set was not timing the ball well. She found the net far too often, and Senorita Lizana only had to keep the ball in play to win most of the rallies. This she was fully capable of doing, scuppering all over the court, and getting even Mrs. Strawson's best shots back, often for winners.

THE VALUE OF PACE

She soon had the first set at 6-3, and looked like getting a runaway victory when she led 4-1 in the second. But Mrs. Strawson, improving fast, and scoring a lot of winners by sheer pace, made a brave effort and won the next three games to level the score, though in one of these the Chilean girl made a half-volley drop-shot close to the net. That was the lowest stroke Mrs. Strawson ever made, reacting, just the ninth game to love; and though she won the next, could only win a single point in the next two, Senorita Lizana thus winning 6-3, 7-6.

The winner's game cannot be called an "all-round" one, for the only two occasions at which she tried to volley were at all successful; but from the back of the court she is really good; only the hardest hitting can defeat her. Her progress will be watched with interest: acumen and activity, power and precision, drives, drops, and determination are her weapons, and they will take some counterpoise.

A RATTLING THREE-SETTER

K. G. Gandar-Dow just got the better of P.D.B. Spence in a fast and rattling three-setter. Spence won the first set at 6-3, and Gandar-Dow the second at the same score. He got a useful 4-2 lead in the final set, and just managed to stick to it, and get home at 6-3.

The play in this match, as in the other, improved as it went on. In the last few games both men were playing very well indeed, both of them making almost incredible recoveries. Spence volleyed very finely, but Gandar-Dow's activity and his habit of playing the unexpected shot all the time, just pulled him through. His general unorthodoxy makes him a very puzzling opponent to deal with; it is a test to many tennis that he plays so many other games, and all of them well.

On July 5 in the s.s. Champlain, to meet Oxford and Cambridge on July 20, at the White City.

The team are composed of athletes who won first and second places in the recent Harvard-Yale track meet here, and also of eligible "freshmen" from both Universities.

The meet will last for two days and will have twelve events. There will be no discus, hammer or javelin throwing.

IMPORTANT MATCH
TO-DAYBowls Leaders To Clash
At King's Park

(By "Sage")

The first battle royal of the season will be staged on the Club de Recreo green this afternoon when the Portuguese side, the present leaders of the Senior Division, encounter the Craigengower Cricket Club. Neither of these two teams has yet been defeated and the winners of to-day's game will establish themselves strong favourites for the title.

The odds are fairly even, with the Portuguese Club enjoying the advantage of home green. It was not until last year that the Club de Recreo were able to secure their first victory against the Craigengower C. C. at King's Park although they had previously won at Happy Valley during the absence in Shanghai of several of the champions' leading players.

Both clubs will be fielding their strongest rinks and, if anything, the visitors have the advantage of experience. They have some of the best bowlers in the Colony in their team whereas the Club de Recreo consists of young players, many of whom have not been playing bowls for very many years. However, they have many capable players and have the material to beat their opponents on their own green.

Whichever way the match goes there should not be a great margin of difference in the total scores. As holders of the title, the Happy Valley side will be expected to win.

KOWLOON BOWLING GREEN LOSE
The Kowloon Bowling Green who, last week went down to the Craigengower C. C. "B" side, will be meeting the Police to-day and should make up for their debacle against the Junior champions of 1932 and 1933.

The Parent Club has not been playing very consistent bowls this season although they still have quite a useful combination. It is with their third rink that they are having trouble. When H. Nish was entrusted with the task of skipping the quartette the rink was badly beaten on a couple of occasions and reshuffling was necessary.

Then W. S. Drake was put in charge and last Saturday he went down to E. el Arculli by a huge margin. It was unfortunate for the Kowloon players that Arculli and his men were in their best form. The Craigengower skip was playing a particularly good game and was mainly responsible for the defeat of the home side.

I see that J. C. Brown is now being given charge of this rink and that there is to be further reshuffling. As long ago as May 18 I suggested that Brown was the right man to be appointed skip to this rink and if he had been in that position last Saturday a different story might have been told after the match.

SHORTAGE OF GREENS
Last week I strongly advocated due consideration being given by the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association to the possibility of acquiring their own ground for all official matches. I put forward the argument that many of the greens in the Colony were unfit for championship matches while others, such as the Taikeo Docks and the Kowloon Docks, who have very good greens, are out of the way and therefore somewhat inconvenient to players.

Already the Police R. C., the Indian R. C. and the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club greens have been neglected by the Association owing to their unfit condition and now further difficulty has been encountered by the Association.

At the beginning of the season it was indicated in this column that the Civil Service C. C., owing to cricket, found it difficult to prepare their green in time for the bowls season and even now the Club can only utilise three rinks. These have to be used every day with the result that they are given no rest whatever.

As a championship match has, in the past, been allocated the club each evening, it has been practically impossible for all members of the club to be accommodated. Now that the club competitions are starting the difficulty becomes more pronounced, and a request has been made to the Association that the club be given only two matches a week.

Members of the Civil Service C. C. would welcome the acquisition by the Association of a green of their own and I am sure many other clubs would also support the idea.

BOWLS INTERPORT

Invitation Being Sent To Shanghai

An invitation for a Shanghai lawn bowls team to visit the Colony during the current season is being sent North shortly by the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association. The sub-committee of the local body last evening formally authorised the Hon. Secretary to communicate with Shanghai.

At the meeting of the sub-committee arrangements were made for the play-off of those singles matches which were postponed during the beginning of the week, while certain re-arrangements were also made. Two games which had been fixed for the Civil Service C. C. green have been altered and competitors should note the changes.

The draw for the third round of the pairs competition and of the second round of the rink competition was made last evening.

The following dates were arranged by the sub-committee last night:

BOWLS TOURNAMENT
CONTINUEDSINGLES MATCH
PLAYEDPAIRS FIXTURE CONCLUDED

A. M. Rumjahn, of the Indian Recreation Club, defeated S. J. Houghton, of the Kowloon Cricket Club, by 21 shots to eight on the 15th head in their tie in the Lawn Bowls Open Singles Championship on the Club de Recreo green yesterday.

The match was originally scheduled to have been played on Thursday, but had to be put off owing to the sudden green.

Rumjahn thoroughly deserved his win, which was the result of some good bowling. He scored on nine heads, registering a four on the seventh head and three threes. Houghton started well and ran away with a lead of six shots without reply from his opponent, but thereafter Rumjahn scored consistently on almost every head.

OPEN PAIRS MATCH

A. R. Dallah and M. Y. Adal had bad luck in losing to H. H. Rose and J. M. Purves in the second round of the Open Pairs Competition when their match was continued on the Craigengower C. C. green yesterday afternoon.

When the match was abandoned at their first meeting, Rose and Purves were leading by 15-12 on the sixteenth head.

On the first head, the seventeenth, played yesterday, Dallah and Adal drew level by scoring a three. They followed this up by registering a four on the eighteenth.

The European pair, however, came back with a single and a two.

When the last head was played, Dallah and Adal were leading by 19-15.

Purves and Rose were lying one when Dallah had one more wood left. He could play for safety and give his opponents one, staking the match on an extra head; or he could try to push one of his own woods up for the shot.

He chose the latter course, but instead of promoting one of his own, he promoted one of his opponents' giving them two instead of one. Rose and Purves thus won by 20-19.

Daughter's Pride in Active Father

"I feel in duty bound," writes (Mrs.) A. J. W., "to express my gratitude for the marvellous results my father has obtained from Kruschen Salts. They should really be called 'Miracles.' He is ninety-two years old, and is as fit as a fiddle. He can nip about and run up and down stairs. His friends marvel why it is he is always alert, and never feels slack. He always tells them the reason—my regular daily dose of Kruschen Salts in my first cup of tea every morning. We always recommend Kruschen Salts to all our friends. To my idea no family should be without it."—(Mrs.) A. J. W.

Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they start the healthy Kruschen habit. Then they start getting rid every day of all waste matter from the system. New, healthy blood goes coursing through the veins. And almost immediately you feel your youth has returned; you feel young, energetic and happy. In a word, you've got that famous "Kruschen Feeling."

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Marking the ascent of Virginia Bruce to the brink of stardom, "Times Square Lady," a different story of New York night life will be screened from to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. Featured with Miss Bruce is Robert Taylor, another comparative newcomer to the films for whom stardom is predicted. He registered a sensational hit in "Society Doctor." Still a third personality is Pinky Tomlin, the hog-calling crooner from Oklahoma who crashed to fame when he wrote "The Object of My Affection" and "What's the Reason I'm Not Pleasing You?" and rode the tunes to personal popularity in a fashionable Los Angeles ballroom. Still others in the cast are Helen Twelvetrees, Nat Pendleton, Russell Hopton, Robert Elliott, Henry Kolker, Isabel Jewell and Irene Kelly. "Times Square Lady" is a comedy-drama with a romantic story with something of the flavour of "The Thin Man." It deals with an Iowa girl who finds herself suddenly the heir to a variety of metropolitan sporting enterprises. Her struggles to keep her rebellious henchmen under control and her unusual romance. Robert Taylor has a dynamic role as a powerful night life figure who saves the girl's heritage from underworld domination. Perhaps strangest of any role in screen history is that of Pinky Tomlin who oddly enough, plays himself. He appears as a country boy who tries to crash the big-time entertainment world and succeeds after several rebuffs.

"Hellorado"

Comes a time in the career of every comedian when he must have a stooge, and Stepin Fetchit, ace of eight-ball, is no exception. In Fox "Hellorado," Jesse L. Lasky's spectacular Fox Film production, which comes to the King's Theatre on Tuesday, Stepin has annexed a midnight miniature of himself, 6-year-old Lucky Hurlie. Lucky, like Stepin, is pitchfork and lacy. And he can shuffle a mean hoof, or tap the hardwood, with equal finesse. In "Hellorado," both Stepin and his piecemeal partner do some impromptu singing, hoofing and acting but studio workers are said to have found it hard to keep them both awake for their scenes. Lucky, too, loves his sleep. "Hellorado" was directed by James Richard Arlen and Madge Evans in the leading roles. Other featured players include Ralph Bellamy, James Gleason, Henry B. Walthall, Helen Jerome Eddy, Gertrude Short, Patricia Farr, Stanley Fields and Bertion Churchill.

"Sophie Lang"

Femininity is coming back into its own this season; ruffles, bows, loops, drapes in every conceivable place are being used in the new summer fashions being created by Travis Banton, Paramount style head. For Gertrude Michael, appearing in "The Notorious Sophie Lang," coming to the Alhambra Theatre on Sunday, the noted style authority has designed a stunning dinner dress of black chiffon, with a high, round neck and wide flat loops of the material at the shoulders to form the sleeves. The dress is form-fitting, but there is a dounce of the material just below the knees, fastened with tiny loops of the chiffon. A large stitched taffeta hat and elbow length gloves are worn. In "The Notorious Sophie Lang," Miss Michael is given ample opportunity to wear many new creations, which were designed for her by Travis Banton, the Paramount studios' fashion creator. In the film, Miss (Continued on next column)

Michael plays the role of a glamorous, international adventuress, who outwits her rivals and the police by her charms and beauty. She plays her trade throughout two continents eluding her pursuers, and her lovers—for she steals diamonds and hearts with equal abandon. How she finally wins her freedom and finds real love in the heart of her greatest rival, brings the film to an entertaining climax. Ralph Murphy is the director.

"Sequoia"

The most startling innovation in screen entertainment since motion pictures were first discovered is offered in "Sequoia," M-G-M's nature drama featuring Jean Parker, and now showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

A human romance is blended into a story of animal life containing such unheard of scenes as a mountain lion and a deer, nature's most deadly enemies, playing together like lambs; hundreds of deer on migrations into high Sierra regions never before photographed by a camera; mountain lions and wolves stalking animal prey; and intimate records of the daily life of such wild animals of coyotes, bears, raccoons, eagles, rattlesnakes, baby fawns, and small lion cubs. Photography that brings gasps to audiences was obtained by months of "stalking" behind trees and in brush shelters. The pagan beauty of Jean Parker has never been brought out to better advantage than during her scenes as a girl of the forest. Russell Hardie is virile and convincing as the young forest-ranger who finds love with the "Forest Girl." Supporting roles are capably filled by Paul Hurst as Bergman, killer of deer, Samuel Hinds as the naturalist, Edward Brophy as a ranger, and Willie Fung as the oriental house servant, who lives in terror of all wild animals.

THOUSANDS have testified to the efficacy of 'ASPRO,' and thousands more have proved by use that 'ASPRO' definitely soothes away the excruciating pains of Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Headaches, etc. It quickly stops the pain. There is no waiting or delay; furthermore, 'ASPRO' is safe, and it does not harm the heart, digestion, or stomach. It can be taken by anyone, anywhere, at any time, and the reason why 'ASPRO' has such a large number of uses in every home is because, after ingestion in the system, it is an internal antiseptic—an anti-pyretic or fever reducer—an anti-periodic—a powerful germicide, and a definite solvent of Uric Acid.

Let your slogan be:

My father has suffered with LUMBAGO and RHEUMATISM in severe state, being in bed 2 or 3 weeks at a time each year. Some time ago he tried 'ASPRO' Tablets for relief, and they acted wonderfully.*

During the last 11 years he has taken very many Tablets, but he enjoys better health and does not get a return of severe pains nor any ill effects from taking your 'ASPRO'.

He continues to take 'ASPRO' Tablets daily and would recommend anyone suffering from LUMBAGO or RHEUMATISM to try 'ASPRO' Tablets as they give such splendid relief.

SERIAL STORY

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE

CHAPTER XXXIX

Millie clutched Norman's arm. "Do you suppose they know I'm here?" she whispered.

"They must," he said. "They're explaining to Johnson who you are, and telling him to hold you until they can get the police."

"Let's not wait here," she said. "Let's make a break. We can get past them and—"

"No," he said. "They're yelling murder, police, and all the rest of it, chasing up and down the street and starting a hue and cry. We'll just sit tight and see what happens. Anything is better than to be caught trying to escape. You just sit tight and I'll stand back of you no matter what happens."

His arm crept around her, drew her to him.

"Remember, sweetheart," he whispered, "no matter what happens, I love you, I love you, I love you."

She sighed happily, let her head rest against his shoulder, feeling that she could trust him to see her through any danger that might arise.

She found herself thinking that all of the troubles she had encountered had been benefits in disguise. When she had been unkind, that was being unkind, she had, in reality, been laying the foundation for the happiest moments of her life. Had it not been for her connection with the Dringold murder, she would never have met Norman Hap, nor come to appreciate his wonderful character.

Her meditations were interrupted by Norman's voice, saying in a hoarse whisper, "Look, they're going. Let's pretend we didn't see them and see what Johnson has to say when he comes back."

They returned to their chairs and a moment later, when Johnson languidly entered the room and remarked casually, "Make a sale?"

"No," Johnson drawled, "they weren't customers. They wanted to find out if anyone had been asking questions about a bottle of whisky that was sold. I guess it must have figured in a divorce case or something. Anyway, they wanted to find out about it."

"You mean they were asking questions about the people who had purchased the whisky?" Millie asked quickly.

"Now, they was asking about whether someone had been asking questions about it," Johnson replied. "It's too deep for me."

"I presume you told them that you weren't the regular proprietor and to come back?" Norman ventured.

"Nope," Johnson said. "I pretended I was the guy that runs the place and told them nobody's been asking questions. Shucks, you can't make any profit out of waiting on customers who are just asking you a lot of fool questions like that, and no one ever remembers a person who buys a quart of whisky anyway. It ain't any use going to a lot of bother over something that means a net loss to the business."

"Well, that's pretty good logic," Norman agreed with a significant glance at Millie. "That'll keep the proprietor from being bothered with them again."

"Yeah," Johnson said wearily. "People don't realize that it takes a lot of energy for a man to get up and walk clear to the front of the store and then come back again with there ain't no profit in connection with a sale. It's just a dead loss of valuable time and effort—leastwise," he amended after a moment, "it's a loss of effort. Time ain't so valuable. Business is pretty poor these days and there ain't much use figuring time as being an asset. In fact, nothing's an asset when a man gets to losing money in his business. Every day he keeps the place open makes the loss that much bigger, so it's kind of a job trying to figure just what time is worth. Maybe time ain't an asset after all—just a liability."

Norman laughed. Millie smiled. "If most of it," Johnson said. "I'm talking facts. The trouble with this country is there's too much competition. Now, I've got too many competitors in the stationery business. What the government should do is to set up a sort of code by which every man in the stationery business would be guaranteed a certain net income, regardless of how much stuff he sold. Then competition wouldn't be so keen and people wouldn't have to cut prices in order to get business. That would mean there'd be more sales made, which would mean that the guaranty wouldn't cost the government anything."

He nodded his head sagely, then yawned and said, "Oh, well, I ain't going to bother my head trying to solve the country's economic problem unless I get paid for it, and it don't look like anyone's going to pay me."

He stretched his arms above his head, yawned a couple of times, said drawlingly, "I can hear if anyone comes in and you folks won't mind if I close my eyes a little bit. My eyes ain't strong; the light hurts them."

He closed his eyes and almost instantly started to snore.

Norman and Millie sat there, silent and waiting, afraid to talk for fear Johnson had not told them the truth about his conversation with Cynthia Hap and Rob Caise. His transition from drawing conversation to gentle snoring seemed too rapid to be genuine and Norman placed his finger to his lips, signaling Millie to silence.

After some 10 or 15 minutes the electric bell gave warning of a customer. Johnson straightened from the cot, yawned, rubbed his eyes, shuffled sleepily into the main part of the store, sold an order amounting to almost $10, returned, grinned at them, then closed his eyes again and was almost immediately asleep.

They had been waiting nearly half an hour when the proprietor returned. He beckoned Millie and Norman to one side and said, "I'm sorry, folks, but it's a bum steer."

"What do you mean?" Norman asked.

"That ain't the woman," he said. "You saw Phyllis Faulconer?"

"Yes."

"She wasn't the woman who bought that whisky?"

"Nope. I never saw her before in my life."

"She was in Apartment 300?"

"That's right. I asked her was her name Phyllis Faulconer, and she said it was. I told her I was soliciting business for a laundry route and she said she didn't have no laundry."

"No laundry?" Millie inquired.

"That's what she said. She said she only stayed at that apartment off and on, and she didn't have any laundry, and what was more, she thought I had a crust ringing her bell at that hour of the night to solicit laundry. She said there wasn't any peddlers allowed in the place and she was going to report me if I didn't clear out."

"So you cleared out?" Millie asked.

"That's right. I figured you just wanted me to take a look at her, so I cleared out."

"She's there now?" Norman inquired.

"Was a few minutes ago," the man said.

Norman's face showed sudden decision. He turned to Millie. "That settles it," he said. "I'm going up to take a look at that Phyllis Faulconer and when I get done with her I'm going to find out just what she's doing with a key to that apartment."

tribute of gales of laughter, as well as a few furtive tears. It is a great human document. There is an abundance of stellar talent in the new film—at least three stars, and some will agree with the writer that there are six. Jackie Cooper and Jackie Searl appear respectively as Bill Peck and Horace Clay, offering performances which are wonderfully matched and balanced. Then there is Thomas Meighan, whose return to the screen must be a cause of rejoicing to all those who admire his stalwart, healthy humour and his matured and certain touch. Also, there is O. P. Heggie as the town's drayman, philosopher, tramp and humorist—a "fat" role.

"The Little Colonel"

Lionel Barrymore prophesies a great future for little Shirley Temple, and believes she is the possessor of a gift far beyond the conception of ordinary mortals. He compares her with his grandmother, the first Mrs. John Drew, who was herself a finished actress at the age of six.

Both prior and praised are co-starred in Fox Film's "The Little Colonel," the current success at the King's Theatre. The notable supporting cast in this De Sylva production numbers Evelyn Venable, John Lodge, Sidney Blackmer, and others. The intangible Bill Robinson, ace of tap dancers has a featured role. A concluding sequence of "The Little Colonel" is presented in Technicolor.

"Casino Murder Case"

"The Casino Murder Case" having its final showings to-day at the Queen's Theatre is a picture well worth seeing for many reasons. It's another from the pen of S. S. Van Dine. It brings to the screen a new leading lady in their person of Rosalind Russell and a new type of Philo Vance as portrayed by Paul Lukas, while the supporting cast includes such notable players as Alison Skipworth, Donald Cook and others.

The baffling plot deals with the eccentric Lowellyn family. One member is murdered, another dies mysteriously and two others are poisoned although they recover. It befalls Lukas as Van Dine's famous fictional detective to discover the guilty person and to cast suspicion on everyone. Unusual in itself, one of science's latest discoveries, "heavy water" figures prominently in the plot. This Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production was directed by Edwin Marin and has a fair sprinkling of humour and a blend of romance, chills and thrills.

EUROPEANS AT LAW

MRS. W. E. CLARK SUEDE BY MRS. M. WESTCOTT

Before the Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, at the Summary Court yesterday afternoon, Mrs. M. Westcott, who formerly traded under the name of "Mayflower" at the 1st floor of Pedder Building, sued Mrs. W. E. Clark, of the "White Cottage," Taiipo, for $294.20 being money owned by her and which, it is alleged, had been used by defendant without her authority.

The plaintiff was not in Court, but was represented by her husband, Mr. L. G. Westcott, who in evidence said that between January 1 and 15, 1934, he and his wife went to hospital, leaving the business unattended. Several ladies volunteered to look after the business for them, and eventually the defendant was accepted as she used to sell some of her produce in the shop on a commission basis.

Defendant looked after the business until the end of February and had complete control of it receiving nearly all payments.

When witness came out of hospital, he asked defendant for a statement of the accounts during the time she looked after the shop. The statement was not given until September.

The dispute in question, continued witness, was that looking over the statement of accounts given by defendant, he found that they did not tally with the payments received and the money paid out by her from his wife's cheque book. Witness then went on to describe the various items in the duplicate receipt books, and added that the amounts were not in accordance with the statement given by defendant.

The case was adjourned until the afternoon of Monday, June 24. On the application of defendant, his Honour ordered plaintiff to be present at the next hearing.

eat dream, wouldn't it? Well, that's just what happened to one young lady, however. Her name is Betty Furness, and ever since Betty can remember, Lionel Atwill has been her matinee idol. At first it was just blind adoration of a six-year-old girl for a kindly, next door neighbour (The Atwills and Furnesses occupied adjoining cottages on Long Island). Then it became the typical school-girl "crush," and finally the profound respect of a novice for a great artist. Miss Furness knew Atwill quite well, in fact she called him "Uncle Lionel," so her rapturous enjoyment can be well imagined, when after separation of seven years, she found herself assigned to play the leading feminine role in "Beggars in Erin," the ripping Monogram picture starring Lionel Atwill which has its final showings at the Alhambra Theatre to-day.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

By W. E. McKenney

The American Bridge League has set the week of Aug. 5 for the summer session of the annual national championship tournament. Many western players are planning to attend this year, due to the fact that the full session will be in Chicago the first week in December.

Here's a hand that came up in a recent duplicate game at the West Side Duplicate Club in Cleveland.

♠ 8 7 4	♥ 10 9 8 4	♦ 10 9 8 4	♣ 10 9 8 4
♠ 10 6	♥ 7 3 2	♦ 7 3 2	♣ 7 3 2
♠ 7 3 2	♥ 10 9 8 4	♦ 10 9 8 4	♣ 10 9 8 4

While the contract was only four odd, a neat play awarded the declarer with two overtricks.

The Play

Opening lead, the three of diamonds, was won by East with the ace. He immediately returned a diamond, which South won with the king. A small heart was won in dummy with the jack and a club played and won by declarer with the ace.

Declarer played three hearts, picking up all of West's trump, dummy discarding two spades and a club, East discarding a spade and a diamond. A small spade came next, was won in the dummy with the ace, and a spade returned. This was won by declarer with the king, which dropped West's ten spot.

Declarer led the ten of hearts, West discarded the jack of diamonds, dummy the nine of diamonds, and East the nine of clubs. This left West with the queen of diamonds and the jack-six of clubs. North had the ten of diamonds and king-seven of clubs. East had the queen of spades and the queen-ten of clubs. Declarer held a spade, a heart, and a club.

The last trump was led. West had to retain his diamond, other-

Today's Contract Problem

South is playing the contract at four spades, redoubled. Should East's double give you sufficient information to make the contract?

NEW YORK MARKET

COTTON PRICES LOWER

New York, June 7.
Messrs. Handy and Harmon quoted silver at 72½ cents per ounce here to-day.

On the foreign exchange market the dollar was firm against sterling and easy against gold currencies.

On the New York Cotton Exchange prices were ten to fourteen points lower after fluctuating in a thirty point range in a very nervous market. The market was erratic due to the uncertainty regarding the cotton programme and uneasiness over the government pool operations.

Silk prices were one and a half to two and a half points higher. Dealer and import accounts were operating on both sides of the market. Commission houses made scattered sales.—United Press.

TENDERS ACCEPTED

LATEST GOVERNMENT LIST

The Government has accepted the following tenders:

Supply of a tank wood single-screw motor boat for police services at Tai O.—Messrs. Kwong Cheung Hing.

Supply of a steam single-screw steel cruising vessel for Police Services.—The Taihook Dockyard & Engineering Company of Hongkong Ltd.

Asphaltum.—The Asiatic Petroleum Co. (S.S.) Ltd.

Supply of coal to the Hongkong Government for 1935.—Messrs. Sai Hing & Co. Ltd.

New Quarters for Ambulance Dresser, Sham Shui Po Fire Station.—Messrs. Kin Lee & Co.

Chinese type houses, Wong Ma Kok.—Mr. Tang Shui-kwong.

Reinforced concrete gables in carriage shed.—Messrs. Woo Hing.

CHINESE TROOPS MOVING OUT

NEW GARRISON FOR TIENTSIN

Tientsin, June 8.

Almost immediately after the announcement was made for the transfer of General Yu Hsueh-chung to a new post as Commander of the Anti-Bandit Forces in Szechuen, Shenai and Kansu border districts, General Yu's troops stationed in North China commenced evacuation of the Tientsin area and the other districts to the south-east of Tientsin, control of which to be taken over by General Sheng Cheng, the newly appointed Garrison Commander of Tientsin.—Central News.

COLONY FINANCE

SUPPLEMENTARY VOTE NEEDED

A Bill authorising the appropriation of a supplementary sum of $635,442.27 to defray charges in 1934 is to be introduced in the Legislative Council shortly.

The sum is allotted as follows:
Magistracy—Hongkong $ 6,703.85
Magistracy, Kowloon $ 4,138.99
Miscellaneous Services $432,383.92
Public Works Extraordinary $192,215.51

Street, in connection with the Government changes.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald left the Palace after an hour's audience with His Majesty, at which the King advised him that he had sent for Mr. Baldwin. The returning Premier was escorted by Sir Olive Wigram, the King's Private Secretary, to his car and was cheered by the crowd which had gathered outside.

Four minutes later, Mr. Baldwin arrived and was immediately shown into the King's apartment, where His Majesty offered him the Premiership, which he accepted. He was only ten minutes with the King and then motored back to Downing Street, but returned to the Palace shortly afterwards with the list of proposed Ministers.

In the meantime, all the Ministers of the National Government assembled to say good-bye to Mr. MacDonald. He and most of them left for the Palace at 5.30 p.m., notable among them being Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, who had not yet attained Cabinet rank.

BIGGER CABINET

Mr. Baldwin's Cabinet numbers 22, compared with 20 under Mr. MacDonald, but the balance of the three parties is hardly affected, as it consists of 16 Conservatives, three National Labourites and four National Liberals, compared with 14 Conservatives, three National Labourites and three National Liberals formerly.

Among the Conservatives, Sir John Gilmour and Sir Hilton Young are no longer members, but the Marquis of Zetland, Lord Eustace Percy and Mr. Anthony Eden have been brought in.

The appointment of Mr. Ernest Brown to Cabinet rank adds one National Liberal to the representation, while the National Labourites are unchanged in number, as Lord Sankey goes out but Mr. Malcolm MacDonald comes in.

Sir John Simon, as head of the Home Office, becomes His Majesty's principal Secretary of State and by becoming Deputy leader in the Commons restores the Home Secretaryship to its former position, in which its holder was the Premier's right-hand man in the House.—Reuter.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT

London, June 7.
On resigning the Premiership, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald issued a message from 10 Downing Street saying he had long realised that he would have to seek a respite from the heavy and continuous strain which the critical conditions of the last six years, both at home and abroad, had imposed on him as Prime Minister.

NEED OF UNITY

"I have been greatly concerned lest any change in the personnel of the Government should weaken its national character and throw our politics back upon partisan lines, whether Conservative, Liberal or Labour," he says. "I am convinced that such a step would speedily undo the policy which has led this country thus far through its difficulties and given it that confidence and prospects it now enjoys."

"I have presided over a Cabinet diverse in general political principles as few Cabinets, even those drawn from a single party, have been. Such a Cabinet is still required so that the national progress shall be maintained and the problems, both domestic and foreign, with which we are faced shall be surmounted."

"Therefore, though I am compelled to seek temporarily a re-

MRS. RATTENBURY

VERDICT OF SUICIDE WHILE OF UNSOUND MIND

London, June 7.
The result of the inquest on Mrs. Rattenbury on June 6 was suicide while of unsound mind.

The coroner read out extracts of letters including one from Mrs. Rattenbury addressed to the Governor of Pontonville Prison which ran, "If I only thought it would help Stoner I would stay on, but it has been pointed out to me all too vividly that I cannot help him. That is my death sentence."

The doctor gave evidence that Mrs. Rattenbury died from wounds in the heart, self-inflicted, and that death was instantaneous.—Reuter.

responsibility less arduous, I wish the country to understand that the reason for this has nothing to do with matters of opinion or policy. I have gladly responded, however, to the desire of my colleagues that I should remain with them and give them help which, while less exacting, will still be wholehearted, and I hope the confidence and support which the country has given to the National combination of which I have been the head will be renewed to the same combination under its new Prime Minister.—Reuter Special.
